PRES. MCKENNY AT KIWANIS MEET

GIVES INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON RELATION OF CLUBS TO NATIONAL LIFE.

President Charles McKenny of the Normal college gave an interesting talk Wednesday at the meeting of the Kiwanis club. He said:

"Clubs like the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Canopus are among the most promising things in American life today. There is a direct relationship between the Kiwanis club of Ypsilanti and the national life of the nation. The reason is that all over the United States you will find Kiwanis clubs, and Rotary clubs, and similar clubs.

"The purpose of these clubs is not to eat and have a good time but to advance American citizenship. There are two things that we have today that the nations did not have before the Christian era. They are a scientific spirit and the Christian standard of living. We are better able today to decide what is right and what is wrong than were the ancients."

President McKenny also gave some interesting facts about the Normal college and stated that it was the largest revenue producer in the city. Over one million dollars are spent here annually. The payroll of the faculty and other employees at the college amounts to $349,000 yearly, he stated. The students bring in the balance to make the million.

One of the great problems confronting the Normal, he stated, was the social problem of caring for the morals of 2,000 young girls. All of the rules made for their good, he stated, were promulgated and voted upon by the students themselves. Only two per cent break these rules, while the other 98 per cent observe them.

The greatest menace is the young men who persist in accosting and stopping girls on the streets. He urged that the streets be better officered and asked club members to bring about the proper atmosphere in the city and to assist in abolishing the nuisance certain young men persist in making of themselves.

TAYLOR WAIVES EXAMINATION.

Charles Taylor, accused of shooting his daughter, Mrs. Mattie Butler, on Wednesday waived an examination before Justice Stadtmiller and was bound over to the October term of circuit court. His bail was fixed at $1,000. The alleged shooting occurred last Sunday evening at the home of Taylor, who claims he shot at a former son-in-law named James Jackson. The revolver failed to explode the cartridge, when his daughter grabbed his arm. Taylor then turned the gun on his daughter and shot her in the leg.

ARRAIGNED MONDAY ON CHARGE ASSAULT

Charles Taylor was arraigned Monday afternoon before Justice Stadtmiller on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder. Taylor was arrested Sunday evening by Officer Wm. Vay, who received a call from Allen Russ stating that Taylor had shot his daughter, Mattie Butler.

James Jackson, a former son-in-law of Taylor, who has served time for pandering, made an affidavit before Justice Stadtmiller Monday stating that Taylor attempted to shoot him, and when his daughter, Mattie Butler, interfered he shot her in the leg above the knee.

When arraigned Taylor claimed that Jackson did the shooting and Prosecutor Fahrner has ordered Jackson held. Taylor was committed to the county jail in default of $1,000 bail. He asked for an examination, which was set for Sept. 27.

Officers say that Taylor was intoxicated when arrested. When not drinking he is considered a hard-working man and is noted for his honesty. All of the parties are colored.

COLLEGE DISTRICT ASS. WINS CUP

The organization of shoe dealers of Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor known as the Michigan College District association won the silver loving cup for the largest attendance of any local association in this state at the state convention of shoe dealers held in Detroit last week.

Wm. P. Purfield, of Ann Arbor, president of the local association, was made vice-president of the state association, and Ray Cotton, of the firm of Minniss & Cotton, of this city, was elected sergeant-at-arms.

It was shown at the convention that the percentage of profit of shoe retailers was the smallest of any class of retailers except grocers, according to local delegates. It was generally believed at the convention that the liquidation of the shoe business is complete and that the present level of prices is almost certain to remain for some time.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT NORMAL.

The Normal college will open next week. A large attendance is looked for this fall. Clearly college has already opened and a number of students are looking for places to work for their room and board. LIBRARY EXHIBIT AT NORTHVILLE FAIR

One of the most unique exhibits that will be set up at the Wayne county fair, held at Northville from Sept. 28 to Oct. 1, will be that of the Wayne County Library service. It will consist of a model library center and rest room, placed in one corner of the woman's building. There will be available a carefully chosen collection of books and magazines for the use of the fair visitors, both adult and juvenile. Charts and maps will show the progress of the work during the past year, and there will be a complete set of pictures showing the library centers already in operation throughout Wayne county. As a special feature on the last day of the fair the books in the exhibit will be circulated free of charge to anyone residing in the county.

The organization of library work by counties is a comparatively new development and has only been possible in Michigan since 1917, when a county library law was passed. Wayne county is the fourth in the state to establish this service.

The work was started here in December, 1920, and since then eight communities have been supplied with free library service. Library collections are now located at Grosse Ile, Taylor Center, Flat Rock, Belleville, Sumpter township, Redford, Canton Center road and the farm bureau in Dearborn.

It is hoped that the exhibit at the Northville fair will bring the attention of Wayne county residents to the fact that they are entitled to free book service, and may now make arrangements for books in their communities and homes by getting in touch with the Wayne County Library service at the Detroit Public Library.

Mr. Carl Lindgren added much to the pleasure of the evening by singing a group of three songs.

YPSI BUSINESS PLACES OPEN WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Ypsilanti business places were open on Wednesday afternoon of this week for the first time since the weekly half holiday was declared for Ypsilanti merchants during the summer. Those who benefited by this series of summer half holidays the most are of the opinion that it is too bad to get back on the job just when golfing, fishing, etc., are at their best. Many of these half holiday enthusiasts believe it a good plan to continue throughout the winter, making Wednesday afternoon a recognized weekly occurrence during the year. Doubtless these H. H. E.'s will take up hunting or snowshoeing; or, if they find they cannot brave the elements this winter, they may get their recreation from parlor games.

"HER MAJESTY"

Petticoats

—that are especially designed for Stout Women

IT is in the fitting of the woman, who is plumply inclined, that "Her Majesty" Petticoats secure another triumph. They have been specially designed to add that svelte touch that fashions the well dressed woman.

In "Her Majesty" Petticoats for stout women the usual skimping of material is noticeably absent—there is rather the requisite sufficiency of material that women quickly appreciate. These extra-size petticoats incorporate all the qualities that characterize the regular sizes—trigness of style, beauty of design, richness of coloring and superbly fitting qualities. The prices are as moderate as the quality is unusual.

SHOES FOR SERVICE

NOTHING ACCENTUATES THE SMARTNESS OF YOUR COSTUME MORE THAN YOUR SHOES

Therefore one cannot be too careful in making selections, always keeping in mind the PURPOSE for which the shoes are needed. It is really the finest sort of economy to select "shoes for occasions"—for every type of footwear is made to serve a certain purpose. If misused a dainty shoe will soon look badly—and a sturdy, mannish shoe will absolutely ruin the appearance of a dainty, dressy frock. Choose "shoes for occasions" and enjoy the satisfaction of economy and correctness.

Come in and be EXAMINED FREE OF CHARGE and let us fit you up with the required need in DR. SCHOLL'S FOOT REMEDIES.

SOME PEOPLE STILL THINK THAT HIGH QUALITY IMPLIES HIGH PRICE.

Despite their longing for lessened prices, some good folks keep on paying the highest possible price for their shoes. They seem to doubt anything bearing a modest price.

True there is a price limit, below which good shoes cannot be produced. But in our store we have reduced that limit to the medium, through the advantages in market conditions and our willingness to accept a very close margin of profit.

Come in and see us anyway. We are always glad to show our goods, and if we haven't what you want, we'll gladly get it, in shortest time possible.

Rear Cleary College, on
Adams StreetCONCERT COURSE
FOR COMING YEARMANY RENOWNED ARTISTS TO APPEAR—FIRST CON-CERT OCT. 20.

The University School of Music, Ann Arbor, has just completed all the details regarding soloists and dates for the two big concert courses which will be provided for the coming year. Special interest centers in the third annual extra concert series, the importance of which this year will be greatly enhanced by the inclusion of five strictly orchestral programs by the Detroit Symphony orchestra, under its distinguished conductor, Ossip Gabrilowitsch. At each of these concerts a renowned soloist will appear so that programs of greater variety and breadth will be given. These concerts will take place as follows:

Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, on which occasion the soloist will be Miss Estelle Lieblich, the renowned soprano, who has acquired an excellent reputation as the result of her fine artistry. She will also be the soloist with the orchestra in Detroit at about the same time, the two engagements making it possible for her to be heard in this part of the country. She is said to possess a voice of unusual beauty, especially adapted for orchestral appearances. Not only is she a well established musician herself, but it is interesting to note that she comes from a family of distinguished artists who have had great influence in the world of music. Her brother has for many years been at the head of the Musical Courier, one of the world's greatest music publications, while other members of her family have distinguished themselves on the concert platform.

Dec. 12—On this occasion Raoul Vidas, the renowned young French violinist, who took New York by storm last season, will appear as soloist. Mr. Vidas has had a remarkable career since the age of seven, when he made his debut before the queen of Romania. Following this he was placed under the greatest instructors in the music centers of Europe and in a short time concerts followed in the great music auditoriums of the continent and in Great Britain. He has been engaged to appear as soloist with practically all of the great American orchestras next season.

Jan. 23—The appearance of the orchestra on this occasion will be of particular interest, for it will bring to Ann Arbor the distinguished Ossip Gabrilowitsch, not only as conductor, but as soloist, for he will appear at this time in the role of pianist, accompanied by the famous band of musicians over which he presides. Mr. Gabrilowitsch is a familiar figure in Ann Arbor, having appeared in recitals several times in the past and also as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, as well as in the capacity of conductor with his own men.

The fourth concert in the series will take place Feb. 20, on which occasion the distinguished Dutch violinist, Hans Kindler, will appear as soloist. Holland seems to have been particularly fertile in the production of famous virtuosi who have mastered this soulful instrument and among her great representatives Kindler stands in the forefront.

The final program will take place March 27, at which time another renowned pianist will be heard, Mr. Bendleton Netorg, who since the coming of Gabrilowitsch to Detroit has been an annual soloist in that city. Mr. Netorg is an accomplished pianist, whose readings are always attractive and his coming to Ann Arbor in this capacity will add the name of one more great pianist to be heard.

In the regular Choral Union series six attractive programs will be provided in which artists of highest rank will appear as follows:

October 20—Erno Dohnanyi, who for more than a score of years has held a forefront position in the artist world of all Europe. Twenty years ago at the beginning of his career he toured America and appeared in Ann Arbor in the Choral Union series. Patrons of that day are still enthusiastic about the wonderful performance which he offered and rejoice that he is to come again. His return to America after all these years was the signal for a stampede of requests for engagements from managers throughout the country, only a limited number of which could be accepted, Ann Arbor being one of the fortunate cities. Not only is Mr. Dohnanyi a virtuoso of first rank, but he is a remarkable composer as well, and his works are familiar to program builders.

The second concert in this series will bring to Ann Arbor one of the world's greatest tenors, who is looked upon by the music fraternity in general as the logical successor to the great Caruso—John McCormack. Only recently did he return from a tour of Australia and the adjacent islands, where he won remarkable successes. Since returning again to America his popularity has been greater than ever. That he is an incomparable artist in the world of oratorio and opera is conceded by all, but it is also the universal opinion of all that his art is at its highest when in recital. He will be accompanied at this time by Mr. Edwin Schneider, the distinguished pianist.

Dec. 5—On this occasion Ann Arbor will have opportunity of hearing for the first time the third and last member of that great trio of music, namely, Ignaz Friedman, whose position in the world of music is comparable only to that of dePachman and Paderewski. His talent was discovered early, for at the age of eight he was already an accomplished pianist and could also transpose the fugues of Bach at sight. Appearing first as a child prodigy throughout Europe, in a few years his fame as a master was fully established. The late James G. Hunker, dean of American music critics, listened to his New York debut shortly before his death and summed up his criticism by stating that Friedman's recital was the biggest pianistic hit of the season. Other critics exhausted their vocabularies of superlative adjectives.

On Jan. 9 Fritz Kreisler, recognized as the great master of the violin, will again be heard in Ann Arbor. The last few years has been productive of a wealth of wonderful young artists in the realm of violin playing, but throughout all the wholesome glamor which has enshrouded the appearances of younger stars, Kreisler has held undisputed hegemony and is acknowledged to be the standard by which all others are judged.

Feb. 3 Erika Morini, the young Galician violinist, will appear and because of her femininity and youth her program will stand out in wide contrast to that of Kreisler. She is reputed to be by authoritative critics the leading woman violinist of the day, and her debut in New York at the end of last season was repeatedly referred to as of greater significance than that of Heifetz a few years ago. It will be particularly interesting after hearing Kreisler in January to have an opportunity of comparing the offerings of one of the world's brilliant last arrivals.

The programs in this series will be brought to a close on March 14 by a brilliant joint song recital, when Rosa Raisa, the world's leading dramatic soprano and star of the Chicago Opera association, will unite her efforts with that of Giadomo Rimini, a leading baritone of the same august association in providing Ann Arbor an attractive program of operatic selections as well as duets.

The musical season will as usual be brought to a close by the festival of six concerts in May, when orchestra, chorus and soloists will unite in a series of brilliant offerings. Naturally at this early date it is impossible to announce details.

3,150 DOGS IN COUNTY.

There are 3,150 dogs in Washtenaw county, of which 261 reside in Ypsilanti. This number refers only to registered dogs. The number of unlicensed dogs in Washtenaw county can only be guessed at for the present, but as the county sheriff and his band of trusty canine catchers are busy on the trail of all unlicensed dogs it is soon to be expected that the number will be materially reduced.
